by presenting:

Women in Nanoscience

Little materials, big stories

Come hear nanoscientists discuss their lives and work

These are personal stories, told by women scientists from the MacDiarmid Institute. Each talk will take you on a tour of the realities of life as a scientist and the exciting research in the MacDiarmid Institute - from Chemistry to Physics to Engineering to Biology and beyond. These talks are suitable for all levels and ages.

Whanganui: Tuesday 12 September | Whanganui War Memorial Centre
Watt St, Whanganui | 6pm

ASHLEY WAY

Ashley Way is a doctoral student with the MacDiarmid Institute at Massey University. Her research interests include functional nanomaterials and computational chemistry.

Dr CARLA MELEDANDRI

Dr Carla Meledandri is a Senior Lecturer at the University of Otago and a Principal Investigator in the MacDiarmid Institute. Her research involves the use of colloidal and surface chemistry techniques to develop new functional nanoscale materials for a broad range of applications from dentistry to energy storage.
