ISSUE:

Pressed for the time and looking for convenient and nutritious meal options, consumers are turning to easy meal options which can help making serving up lunch / dinner in a breeze.

Aim:

To develop a stir fry sauce that is flavourful, nutritious and quick to prepare.

Method:

- -Online research
- -Visits to supermarkets to investigate current stir fry sauces
- -Carry out survey on target market to establish consumer preferences
- -Identify health and safety requirements and development of HACCP plan
- -Conducting Trials
- -Product analysis to compare attributes and consumer acceptability
- -Sensory testing to determine the taste, texture, flavour
- -Research on packaging options
- -Final production of the product and packaging design

Problems Encountered:

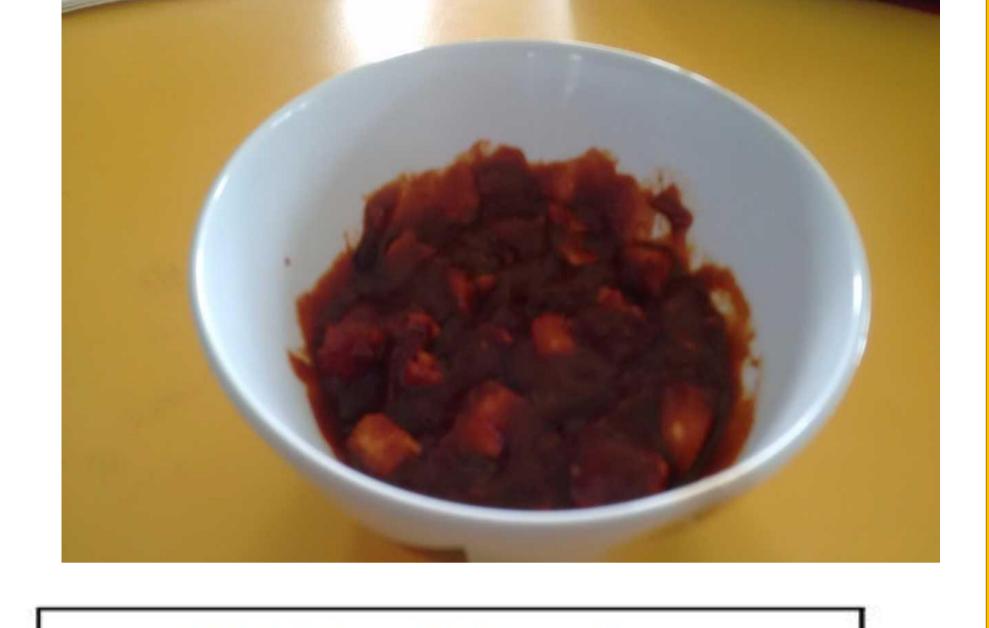

- -Sourcing the right ingredient for the recipe & trying to calculate the right portion size
- -Calculating accurate formulations, the amount of oil, tamarind -date ratio
- -Having incorrect ratio for tamarind & date sourness
- -Getting burnt and hardened after cooling
- -Selecting how our product is to be packaged

Desirable Product Attributes:

- -Unique flavour & appealing taste
- -Minimum of six months shelf life
- -No artificial flavours or preservatives
- -Commercially feasible for production
- -Clean packaging
- -Consistent with market trends, cost effective

Final Product:

Stir fry sauce with an easy to follow recipe of four. Our product has a unique flavour & taste, which can be made in ten minutes. The Stir Fry Sauce will be packaged in a convenient free stand up pouches
